Newly acquired by Objects of Art LLC, the world class San Francisco Tribal & Textile Art Show is the most important show of its kind, and is considered the top tribal art event in North America. The 2017 show will feature a special exhibit on Indonesian textiles with Gamelan music and Indonesian foods for the opening night Gala benefiting the de Young Museum. One of the first art fairs to focus on the highest quality tribal arts, the show has been instrumental in elevating the appreciation of ethnographic arts in the United States. The 2017 show will present materials from indigenous cultures worldwide including Asia, Africa, American Indian, the Pacific Islands, and South America.

The American Indian Art Show – Marin, now in its 33rd year, is regarded as one of the nation's most highly rated showcases of antique and contemporary American Indian art. The show brings together the passion of the country's top dealers and artists with both collectors and those interested in exploring the rich cultures of the Americas. Exhibited art includes jewelry, textiles, baskets, pottery, beadwork, sculpture, photography, paintings, books and more, offering quality material for seasoned collectors and first time buyers.

Objects of Art LLC, is owned by Kim Martindale and John Morris, who also jointly produce the Objects of Art Santa Fe Show, The Antique American Indian Art Show Santa Fe, and in April 2017, Objects of Art Los Angeles. Kim produces the LA Art Show and the American Indian Art Show Marin, both based in California. Please see ObjectsOfArtShows.com
