

● SAN FRANCISCO

By February it is time for the annual San Francisco Tribal and Textile Art Show at Fort Mason: 13 Fair organisers and tribal art collectors Bill Caskey and Liz Lees 14 Bay Area textile and tribal art dealer Andrés Moraga with his son Sebastian 15 Santa Fe based Asian textile dealer John Ruddy talking to Dutch textiles enthusiast Hennie Stolk 16 Los Angeles collector and dealer Stella Krieger on her busy stand 17 Visiting Miami rug specialist Ed Koch of Herat Gallery 18 Tribal show stalwart, Boston area Persian rug specialist John J. Collins in conversation 19 Bay Area textile art collectors Harry and Diane Grenberg with Tibetan rug aficionado Bob Piccus, whose collection is soon to be published by Serindia 20 Heidrun Primas of Gebhart Blazek in Graz with Ulrike Montigel of Stuttgart's Galerie Arabesque 21 Dhani Chinalai Spinola of Chinalai Modern 22 Long-time exhibitor Ron Hort from Minneapolis who apparently sold over sixty pieces at the San Francisco fair 23 New York antique rug dealer, the equable Hagop Manoyan 23 Cologne Indonesian textile specialist Rudolf Smend, who exhibited part of his collection of Indonesian batiks at the entrance to the Fort Mason event, on his stand with local collector Donald Breyer – both sporting bow ties

